At Least 10 Workmen Dead After Fall From 'Unsafe' Scaffolding

San Francisco, Feb. 17.—(AP)—At least 10 workmen plunged more than 200 feet to their deaths from the Golden Gate bridge today in the collapse of a scaffold previously declared unsafe by an inspector for the State Industrial Accident commission.

Ironically, the commission's chief inspector, L. K. Reinhardt, and officials of the Pacific Bridge Company, building the giant structure, were enroute for another inspection when the scaffolding collapsed in a roar of rending steel and splintering wood.

Several of the victims perished in the meshes of a costly safety net of rope, strung underneath the entire length of the 4,200 foot suspension span. The weight of the falling debris tore out the net, plunging it into the turbulent waters of the harbor entrance.

The apparent cause of the tragedy involved the slipping of a wheel of the moveable scaffolding off a steel beam on which it ran. This caused the entire scaffold to collapse. The men were removing from underneath the bridge floor wooden striping used in pouring concrete.

McDonald said A. F. Mailoux, safety inspector employed by the commission, protested Monday that the scaffolding was not safe after reinforcing bolts were placed through side brackets which held the suspension wheel on the beam.

"After the bolt was put in, Mailoux examined the scaffold again and insisted that in his opinion it still was unsafe," McDonald said.

As a result, the commissioner added, Inspector Reinhardt and bridge officials were enroute to view the equipment when it collapsed.

Joseph B. Strauss, chief engineer for the bridge company, said he would issue a formal statement "at the proper time." Earlier he expressed relief that the aluminum suspension roller apparently had collapsed.

The blowing top soil moved into Lamar, Colo., but the dust area of New Mexico reported clear skies.

Dr. S. Lee of Guymon said he had no cases of "dust" pneumonia, but warned "we'll probably have some after today's blow."

"The worst effect of the dust storms," said Dr. Morris Smith, another Guymon physician, "is the sinus and throat trouble."

The Dallas weather bureau reported dust clearing from Texas points outside the panhandle. Don L. Jones, superintendent of the Lubbock, Tex., experiment sub-station, said there was no damage to crops in that area, which grows raw crops principally.

With a prolonged roar, tons of metal and wood being used as paving frame work broke loose from the deck of the gigantic $35,000,000 bridge and hurtled at least 13 men to the sea below.

Plummeting tangle of men and materials hit the safety net stretching for more than a mile along the underside of the bridge deck, broke the life web and peeled it off so that it fell into the water like a monster strip of fabric in the unrolling process.

Nearby fishing boats and fast moving coast guardmen sped to the scene and immediately recovered one body and two living men.

Nine other workers apparently tangled in the wreckage were given up for dead.

A section of the mass broke loose and drifted toward the open sea with rescue boats in pursuit. The boats overtook it before it reached the heads of the Golden Gate and began searching for bodies.

The spectacular crash was the first major accident on the bridge, which spans the Golden Gate from San Francisco to the scenic and agricultural north coast.

Heretofore only one life had been lost during the construction.

Bridge officials said the failure of a wheel on a trolley carrier system acted with a trigger-like effect to start the ripping away of the framework.

Men yelled and scrambled around, safety spots as the trolley tore loose, carrying the framework with it. Some of them jumped into the net. But the falling debris came after them, ripped away a 2,100-foot section of the web and swung them diagonally downward 200 feet to the ocean surface.

"Everybody was yelling," said Larry LaFleur, a painter, "but nobody seemed to realize fully what was going on until the net hit the water."

"I saw two men strike the water surface."

LaFleur said he saw E. C. Lambert, one of those rescued, land in the water atop the net and fight clear while holding to the body of Fred Dummitzen. A fishing boat picked up Lambert and the body.

Another boat picked up Oscar Osberg, the only other worker immediately recovered. Lambert and Osberg were given emergency hospital treatment and released, apparently uninjured.

"I saw the timbers and scaffolding fall," said Albert Ted, a painter who was working a short distance away.

"One man fell and swung onto a steam bracket. He was a red-haired man and still had his pipe in his mouth."

The weight of the steel and timber broke the net straight across its length—60-foot width and ripped southward 2,100 feet to the south bridge tower.

All witnesses and authorities agreed that the nine missing men had virtually no chance of survival.

Frank McDonald of the state industrial accident commission ordered all work stopped pending repairing of the net.

Bridge headquarters said the accident would not delay completion of the span, although the directorate announced a week's postponement of the opening from May 21 to May 28 to permit the arrival of naval vessels for the celebration.

Committee spokesmen said that they would spend three days in the flood area and would report to the legislature on the rehabilitation work necessary and an estimate of the damage, so that work on relief bills could get underway.

Gov. Horner is to be asked to accompany the committee.

DUST BLIZZARD BLOWS AGAIN IN WESTERN AREAS

Brings Threat to Crops and Health In Oklahoma

Some Panhandle Farmers Demand Government Relief

Guymon, Okla., Feb. 17.—(AP)—Swirling "black blizzards"—bringing threats to crops and health—turned day into night in parts of Oklahoma today while wind-blown top soil spread its haze over sections of Kansas, Texas and Colorado.

Some Oklahoma panhandle farmers demanded government relief as the dust storm, fourth in as many days, reached serious proportions.

Schools were closed as the dust gloom enveloped Texas country in the Oklahoma panhandle. Visibility was zero. Buses were stranded. Highway traffic was paralyzed. Street lights burned dimly throughout the day.

There was a shortage of dust masks. Guymon stores sold out their supply yesterday.

Southwestern Kansas residents donned the masks for the first time this season at Liberal. At Hugoon schools in that vicinity were closed, and a revival meeting at Hugoon was postponed.

Two Hugoon, Kas., church basements were available as emergency hospitals. Health authorities banned all public gatherings and the Stevens county Red Cross chapter wired a request for nurses to help doctors handle flu and pneumonia which, aggravated by dust, have caused eleven deaths in the last few days in Hugoon, a town of 1,500.

Visibility dropped to zero in some Texas panhandle communities.

The blowing top soil moved into Lamar, Colo., but the dust area of New Mexico reported clear skies.

Dr. S. Lee of Guymon said he had no cases of "dust" pneumonia, but warned "we'll probably have some after today's blow."

WHOLESALE TRADE

Washington, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Secretary Roper reported today that wholesale trade totaled $52,070,000,000 in 1936, an increase of 17 percent over 1935.

Sequel to a Crossing Crash

Jumping the track, plowing down a steep grade and turning over, the engine and tender of the Baltimore and Ohio passenger train running between Washington and New York, are shown here as they piled up in a ditch near Dorsey, Md. The engine struck a truck, demolishing it and killing one of the passengers. The engineer died at the controls, his fireman was injured. Four coaches left the tracks, but did not turn over.

Senate Committee Learns of Activities Through Motor Officials

Washington, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Witnesses told a Senate committee today that personnel directors of 12 of the nation's largest corporations hold monthly meetings in New York to discuss labor and other common problems.

Activities of the group, known as the special conference committee, were described before the civil liberties committee by Merle C. Hale and Harry W. Anderson, past and present labor relations officers of the General Motors Corporation.

Farmers near Liberal, Kas., said what was not yet suffering from lack of moisture, but at Lakin, Kas., the county agent estimated wheat condition had declined four per cent in a week.

Miners Seek Aids to Working Conditions

Gillespie, Ill., Feb. 17.—(AP)—With the major demand of a six-hour day, 30-hour week and daily basic wage scale of $7.50 agreed upon, the Progressive Miners of America scale convention turned its attention today to proposals for improvement of working conditions.

Taking up one by one the 180 resolutions offered by local unions, the convention progressed rapidly toward the adoption of the complete program to be proposed for inclusion in the new contract to take effect April 1.

Heated debate occurred today on a resolution instructing the miners scale committee and resident officers to obtain all demands possible but to use their own judgment in the negotiations if the full demands were not approved.

It also provided that no agreement be signed or strike called regarding the agreement unless a majority of those voting in referendum approved such action. The convention voted to defer action on the proposal until the demands in full are agreed upon.

COMPROMISE IS NOT WELCOME IN COURT PROPOSAL

Plan Of Wheeler And Bone Meets Strong Opposition

Roosevelt is Still Silent in Bitter Fight

Washington, Feb. 17.—(AP)—Two Democratic independents, critical of President Roosevelt's court reorganization proposal, submitted a compromise today only to see it encounter nearly the same excited opposition that greeted the White House plan itself.

Senators Wheeler of Montana and Bone of Washington, acting jointly, introduced a resolution embodying a constitutional amendment under which Congress by a two-thirds vote could set aside a decision of the Supreme Court.

However well intended the proposal had the immediate effect of attracting the opposition of large groups on both sides of the greater controversy over Mr. Roosevelt's program for infusing "new blood" into the high tribunal by appointing six new justices.

With this exchange, negotiations toward a new wage and hour agreement got under way. The present contract expires at midnight, March 31.

Both Lewis and Charles P. O'Neill, spokesman for the operators, expressed hope the new agreement could be reached without a strike, but Lewis warned the operators that the miners would not work April 1 without a contract.

The miners and operators stated their demands at the opening session of the Appalachian joint wage conference.

Technically, this conference fixes wages and hours only for the commercial mines in the vast Appalachian fields, reaching from central Pennsylvania to Tennessee.

All other mine wages and hours, however, are based on the Appalachian standard.

The increase the miners asked would amount to 50 cents a day for those men hired by the day, bringing the basic daily wage from $5.50 to $6.50 in the north and from $5.10 to $6.00 in the south.

Senators Burke (D-Neb.), Van Nys (D-Ind.), King (D-Utah) and others who have assumed a prominent position among foes of the Roosevelt idea were quick to declare against Wheeler-Bone proposal.

From the camp which is supporting the president emerged statements that while the Wheeler-Bone amendment might have its merits, and might well supplement the White House program, it was not to be considered as a substitute for it.

President Roosevelt, himself, was silent and at the capitol others prominently identified with the opposition such as Senators Glass (D-Va.), Borah (R-Ida.) and Clark (D-Mo.) declined comment.

A Time Honored Art

Our forefathers used axes more than guns to clear their way through the wilderness and bring civilization to this part of the country.

They swing their axes with lightning-like strokes; their aim was true. The axe was one of the most useful articles among pioneer possessions. The men who hewed logs for cabins, chopped trees for firewood and used the axe for dozens of other purposes, couldn't have gotten along without it.

Some say that proper use of the axe is a lost art. Certainly, experts with an axe these days are few and far between.

Many of our young men have seldom laid hands on a hickory handle and sunk the blade of an axe into a solid log. Their houses are already made; they don't need firewood because they use coal or oil to keep warm. Therefore, their chopping has been somewhat neglected.

But in some rural sections we still find men who pride themselves on their expertise with an axe. There is no doubt about there being a "knack" or science to using this particular kind of tool.

An inexperienced chopper can spend an hour whacking away at a log without making much headway. An expert woodsman can, "with the greatest of ease," sever the log within a few minutes by well-placed blows.

The question of just how far the art of swinging an axe has deteriorated in this modern day and age will be answered to some extent February 23 when a chopping contest is held at the farm of L. C. Hess, near Concord. The event, unique in the run of contests, has been arranged by the University of Illinois Extension Service, Morgan County Soil Conservation Association, Morgan County Farm Bureau and Soil Conservation Service.

Performances of the wood choppers on that day will be a good indication of just how far the ancient art of wielding an axe has slipped. No doubt there will be some contestants who inherited the "knack" from their fathers and grandfathers, and have retained it by practice.

Expert wood-chopping is interesting to watch. In fact, the art had so much appeal that the Australian Wood-choppers toured vaudeville circuits in this country for years, giving exhibitions of skill. There is science in wood-chopping, as in almost everything else.

Racketeering in Coins

Because of profiteering by dealers in rare coins President Roosevelt is asking that the practice of congress in ordering promiscuous special coinages of half dollars be terminated.

Congress has been so willing to grant requests for special coinages that during the past year 24 special issues of half dollars were minted.

One of these issues, many will be surprised to learn, commemorated the 50th anniversary of Cincinnati as a musical center.

At that rate, with Jacksonville as an educational center for more than 100 years, we might have had a special brand of half dollars minted most any time to observe some local anniversary.

Coin dealers are now asking $47 for a set of three of these special coins of the Cincinnati variety, minted last year in Denver, Philadelphia and San Francisco.

Most of us regard a half dollar as a half dollar, and the old familiar standard-half buck will serve just as well as any other. Better, in fact, for we know it as the genuine article, while some of the special coins resemble trade tokens or county fair medals.

It is hard to understand why congress should go out of its way to give the coin dealers a field day, and it is hoped that the government will stop this senseless racket in coins.

Economy in Relief

Jacksonville citizens who have contributed more than $5,000 to flood relief during the last few weeks, as well as thousands of other persons in this part of the state who gave liberally to the cause, will be interested to know that these relief funds are being administered most economically. The refugees are being given good care and good food, but care is being exercised that the funds are not wasted.

A good example of the economical use of relief funds comes from Carbondale, where a large number of homeless are being cared for at the Southern Illinois Normal University. At a cost to the Red Cross of about 9 cents per individual meal, the cafeteria established on the campus and conducted by a committee of college faculty members is feeding slightly more than 300 persons three meals each day. The cost for each meal does not include the donated food supplies.

Weekly purchases for the commission established in connection with the kitchen include such items as: 1400 loaves of bread, 444 dozen eggs, 700 pounds of sugar, 600 grapefruit and 9,975 half pints of milk. It is also necessary to get 1,750 pounds of potatoes, 175 pounds of coffee, 25 cases of canned beef, and one 55 gallon barrel of molasses.

The Red Cross has authorized the faculty committee to buy the food, and the committee has set up a perpetual inventory system as a check on the supply.

Meal tickets have been issued to the refugee colony, and they are punched for each meal. Medical representatives from the state department of health have praised the systems employed by the college in housing, feeding, educating and entertaining the refugees.

This description of the emergency work at Carbondale is interesting to all who have given funds. It shows that the relief money is being administered in an admirable way. No one can criticize the record that has been made at the normal school, where the faculty and students temporarily abandoned their own routine to assist in an emergency.

Bringing Up The Family

"Bringing up father" is being modernized into "bringing up the children," as thousands of Illinois parents study how to guide their boys and girls so that they will develop more fully mentally, emotionally, morally and aesthetically, as well as physically.

Nearly 12,000 parents have been engaged actively in study groups stressing child development and family relationships within the past 10 years, according to Miss Edna Walls, home economics extension specialist of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, who is in charge of this work.

Twenty-four counties during 1936 conducted special group work in child development or family relationships, or included such study in their home bureaus.

An interesting fact growing out of this study is the realization that the child's habits, character and disposition are greatly affected by the family environment. For this reason, Miss Walls stated in a recent report, more than half the counties stressing the work this year are interested in the family relationship angle.

Five "knows" are being emphasized as a means to do away with the word "no" which causes many conflicts in families. They are: know oneself as a parent; know the community as to the opportunity it offers for church, school and recreation; know what science is offering to those who would guide children and families in their development; know that home as to its aims, policies, drawbacks and assets, and know the child.

A Defense That Fails

The principal merit of Attorney General Cummings' defense of the plan for the reorganization of the federal judiciary sponsored by President Roosevelt is its generally moderate tone. Its chief defect is that it carefully avoids the central issue.

This discussion of the President's plan by the attorney general is particularly noteworthy for two reasons. Mr. Cummings not only is the first member of the cabinet publicity to enter the controversy produced by the administration's court program, but he also speaks as the chief law officer of the executive branch of the government, the man whose opinion was quoted by President Roosevelt in his message to congress in support of the accompanying legislative proposal.

The proposal most seriously in question, of course, is that which would give Mr. Roosevelt the authority to appoint at this time six additional justices for the U. S. supreme court.

Mr. Cummings' defense of his broadcast to that suggestion, but he confined himself to arguments tending to show the desirability of relieving federal justices at the retirement age of 70 years.

Most opponents of the President's plan, whatever their personal opinion as to the general capacity of jurists at 70 and its relation to public policy, have been disposed to agree that the subject is debatable. It is, indeed, entirely conceivable that after due consideration some provision might be made for the compulsory retirement of all federal judges upon the attainment of a certain age.

But that is not the point. The point is that by proposing such a change at this time, the President has created a widespread assumption among all classes of people, adherents of all parties, that he is attempting to "pack" the supreme court under the guise of increasing its efficiency.

That belief is supported principally by the fact that the court, as at present constituted, has held invalid certain deal legislation, that other new deal acts are under consideration, with the prospect that some of them too, may be declared unconstitutional, and that by appointing six new justices the President might readily affect the streptococci and the various types of disease which they cause are, no doubt, responsible for the delay in isolation of the special form which seem invariably to produce scarlet fever.

Scarlet fever, as I have already said, is a cold weather disease. It begins gradually to increase in the autumn and to reach its greatest incidence from January to March. From then on, the number of cases declines until the lowest number appears during July and August.

In most cases of scarlet fever, swelling of the neck glands is a common sign. Also exceedingly important are the serious effects of the disease on the kidneys; another important complication is infection in the ears. The severe inflammation and swelling in the throat may extend into the Eustachian tubes, which pass from the back of the nose to the ears. The infection, too, may spread through to the ear and cause serious infection, with ultimate destruction of hearing.

In the majority of cases, scarlet fever is spread by infection which passes from one person to another. Another important factor in the spread of the disease is a contaminated water or milk supply.

One of the most interesting symptoms of scarlet fever involves the tongue. Because of its bright red appearance and because the tissue of the surface of the tongue swells so as to show tiny pits, the tongue of a scarlet fever victim is called strawberry tongue.

Delbert Blake of Scott county, brother of Leonard Blake, has been granted a habeas corpus writ by Judge Walter Wright in the Morgan county circuit court to start an action which Delbert hopes will free his brother from the Greene county jail. The writ is returnable today in the Morgan county circuit court.

Leonard Blake was arrested after a family quarrel, and after hearing the evidence, the state's attorney of Greene county brought charges of assault with intent to kill. Mrs. Blake intended to prosecute her husband on a disturbance of the peace charge only. Delbert stated in his petition, and the state's attorney, in the presence of the Justice of the peace and Delbert, admitted that he brought the criminal charges of assault with intent to kill without the permission of Mrs. Blake, and without consulting her.

Mrs. Blake did not appear when Leonard was brought into court the first time, nor has she appeared since at any time the case has been called for hearing. The petition further states that Monday the state's attorney obtained another continuance for ten days, and that it is the belief of the petitioner that his brother is being deprived of his legal rights.

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Senator Nye's statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.

"I have smoked Luckies off and on ever since my first term in the Senate 11 years ago, and I have always enjoyed their taste and the feeling of comfort and safety a light smoke gives my throat. I have done a great deal of public speaking, on the floor of the Senate, over the radio and at conferences. Necessarily this results in a strain on the voice. So naturally, in smoking, I have to think of my throat—and I have found that a light smoke is suitable to my throat."

Here, at last, is a sanitary protection that does away with pads, napkins and belts . . . that brings more freedom to modern women . . . a new method that is completely invisible, and so comfortable that there is no consciousness of wearing a sanitary protection at all!

Physicians approve this hygienic new method . . . women everywhere who have adopted B-ettes agree that they are more comfortable, and permit greater personal daintiness than any sanitary protection ever before devised.

Probable Setting for Duke of Windsor's Wedding

Interest of the world will center on the English Church in Vienna, outside and inside views of which are shown above, if Edward, Duke of Windsor, decides to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson there when her divorce decree becomes final, probably in April. Friends believe the ceremony will take place there and that Rev. C. H. D. Grimes, inset, will read the marriage vows. He is chaplain of the British legation in Vienna.

consin, Senator Bankhead of Alabama and Congressman Lucas of Illinois.)

His communication in substance follows:

President Roosevelt said in his message to Congress that many thousands of tenant farmers—indeed most of them—with some financial assistance and with some advice and training, can be made self-supporting on land which can eventually belong to them.

The nation would be wise to offer them that chance instead of permitting them year after year to go along as they do now, with neither future security as tenants nor hope of ownership of their homes, nor expectation of bettering the lot of their children.

The deeper purpose of democratic government is to assist as many of its citizens as possible, especially those who need it the most to improve their condition of life.

The most urgent need today is for a government agency, probably a Farmers' Home authority (not under a federal land bank) to extend long term, low interest credit to tenants for the full, if needed, purchase of their farms.

I am a tenant farmer on a 120 acre farm lost by my father through foreclosure sale July 27, 1935, for the amount of the mortgage, $7,475.

I could purchase this farm right now for $5,000 cash if I could get a loan for that amount. The federal Land Bank of St. Louis refuses to make me a loan. I have paid application fees twice and got nothing for my money but unfavorable replies.

The first Trust Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago now owns this farm. They have a rule not to rent to a former owner nor any of his relatives after the redemption period expires. So I am to be kicked off of this farm home March 1, 1937, unless I can pay them $5,000 for the farm. All my rent is fully paid.

I am unable to find another suitable farm to rent. What shall I do? Can't the greatest democratic government in the world help me now when I need help?

I suggest that Congress immediately enact legislation enabling farmers like myself who do not have enough money to make a down payment but have livestock and equipment with which to farm, to own their own farm homes.

On August 8, 1936, I paid off a $1,600 chattel mortgage on my farm equipment and livestock held by the receiver of the Ayers National Bank. This was a compromise settlement.

The landlord's share of the 1936 crop was as follows: corn $300; wheat $165; hay $50; pasture rent $62.50. So you see this farm is well worth $5,000 to me.

We tenant farmers are just as hard-working, efficient, honest and capable as the wealthy farmer who can qualify (who needs a loan for 50 percent or less of the value of a farm) for a federal land bank loan.

In my opinion the Rural Resettlement Administration is most familiar with and best qualified to handle this farm home financing.

MacMurray College

Concerned Mostly with China's Democracy, He Tells College Students

Dr. W. R. Johnson, of Nanking, China, an intimate friend of generalissimo Chang Kai Shek, the Premier of China, was the guest speaker at the MacMurray college chapel service, Wednesday morning.

The rapid development of China within the last five years in transportation, in education, and in government was presented briefly by Dr. Johnson, who then turned to America's interest in China.

"America's interest in China is as fundamental as her interest in democracy rather than with the commercial advantages she affords us that we are most concerned. It is vital that America take an active part in building up a world system for the maintenance of peace and progress rather than rationalizing her fears in pacifism. Hence the struggle between the militaristic and the democratic theories of government in the far east does concern us deeply," Dr. Johnson said.

The American oyster crop for 1934 was estimated to be worth $12,000,000.

Receives Summary Of Flood Disaster

Survey Reveals 1,205,256
Homeless in 11 States;
838 Refugee Camps

The county Red Cross chapter has received a summary of flood conditions as viewed by members of the government party that recently toured the distressed area. It reveals that 1,205,256 persons were made homeless by the flood. Of this number 748,229 are being cared for by the Red Cross.

These homeless are scattered in 838 concentration camps, with 270 field hospitals, in which more than 4,200 are ill. There are 1,500 Red Cross nurses on duty in the stricken districts.

The floods affected 177 counties in eleven states. It was necessary to move refugees from these counties into 114 other counties where they could be cared for above flood levels.

So busy has the Red Cross been with the flood crisis that the national convention has been postponed. It was to have been held April 12 to 15, but the dates have been moved to May 10 to 13. Contributions to the disaster relief fund in the present emergency have been greater than at any time, except in the Mississippi floods of 1927.

MESSAGE TO PEDESTRIANS

With persons entering the street from behind parked cars a major cause of accidents involving pedestrians, the February AAA safety poster, now being distributed to Jacksonville schools by the Jacksonville Automobile club, features a timely warning to school children.

"The poster," said T. M. Tomlinson, president of the Jacksonville Automobile Club, "shows cars parked at the curb, with a member of the school patrol pointing to the 'danger zone' between parked cars. 'Keep Out From Between Parked Cars' is the February message." Mr. Tomlinson said that the February poster is the second in the new 1937 series in which all phases of the accident situation, as it directly affects youngsters of school age, will be featured.

"As a general rule," he continued, "children have a better record for observance of the rule of always crossing the street at intersections than adults. This is particularly true of youngsters who have had the advantage of safety lessons and safety posters in class rooms. In fact, it is not unusual to find children politely calling the attention of grownups to this essential feature of safety."

"Parents can assist this safety program by cautioning children always to be observant, to cross only at corners, and never to enter the street from behind parked cars."

Axley went to Peoria Wednesday for a visit with Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Murdoch. They will be away for a week or ten days.

Nine 'Seats of the Mighty' Become Uneasy Chairs

These nine high-backed black-leather chairs suddenly have become uneasy chairs since President Roosevelt proposed an order of "Move over!" or "Please make way!" which would affect the occupants of six of the nine. Should the court be enlarged to 15, there would be literally no room on the bench for the new appointees, as you can see. Reading from the far end to near end of the row, the chairs are occupied by Justices Roberts, Butler, Brandeis, Van Devanter, Hughes, McReynolds, Sutherland, Stone and Cardozo. Several of the old chairs, brought from the court room in the Capitol at the insistence of their occupants, make an odd contrast to the magnificence of their surroundings in the newly-completed supreme court building.

Group of 85 in Meeting Tuesday Night; Sales Campaign Planned

Some 85 dealers in the products of Allied Mills, Inc., gathered Tuesday evening for a banquet and meeting at the Dunlap hotel. The group included business men from this city and surrounding territory. The meeting was for purposes of sales promotion.

Paul Riley, from the company offices at Fort Wayne, Ind., and E. B. Benson of Auburn, district representative, were in charge of the meeting and explained the talking points of company products.

Music during the banquet was furnished by Claude Goes' orchestra. The feature attraction was a popular singing team, Misses Eleanor Large and Marjorie Denny. Both dealers and their wives were in attendance.

Most of the pheasants will be banded in order to trace their movements. Bands will be supplied by the state department, and will be placed on the pheasants obtained under this program.

Pheasants obtained under this program will be distributed among the three clubs of the county organization. Clubs will contribute a proportionate share of the cost of carrying out the program on a membership basis, and the birds will be distributed on a similar plan.

STANDARD RED CROWN GIVES ONE-SECOND STARTING

WITH THE HIGHEST

"You're a mite previous with that furniture, Fella. The house ain't—I mean isn't—half built. Using Red Crown gas? Yeah! Well, it got me here, too, before the architect had drawn his plans. Had to lay around here three days—on me own time, too!"

We're starting a movement to suppress Cartoonist Lichty for exaggerating the speed of Standard Red Crown gasoline.

His only basis of truth is that this winter gasoline starts an engine in good condition in one second at zero; delivers quicker warm-up even than last year when it was 35% faster; and gives your car full steam ahead without costly choking.

It does all that plus the highest possible winter mileage.

If that's your idea, too, of extra good gasoline, STOP IN AT YOUR NEARBY STANDARD OIL DEALER'S STATION FOR A TANKFUL.

PAGING ISO-VIS "D"! Standard Red Crown's fast start-up, quick warm-up with full steam ahead, calls for motor oil which lubricates instantly, thoroughly—and lasts. That means Standard's famous ISO-VIS "D" Motor Oil.

MONTGOMERY WARD

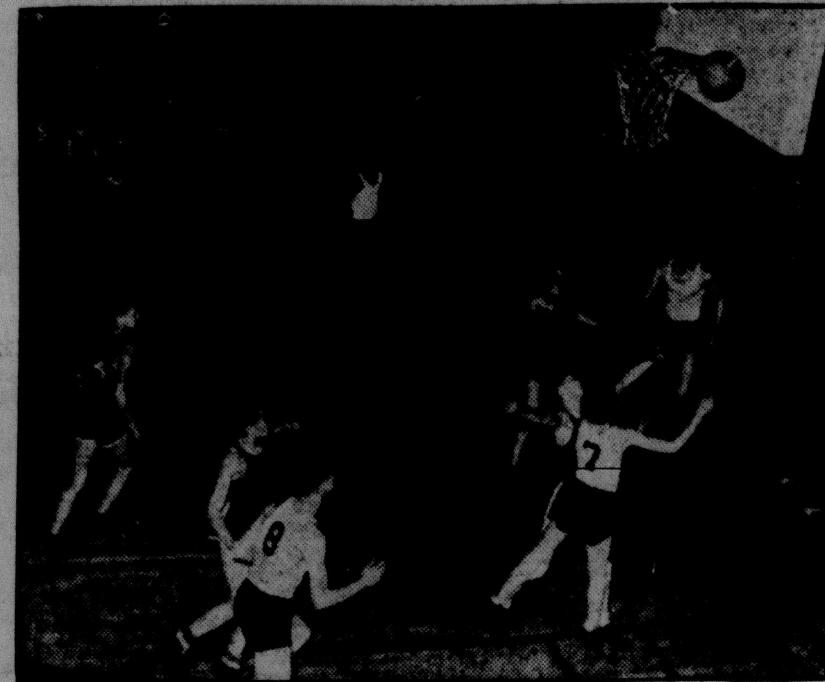

Action—Speed—Thrills—Shown In Pictures Taken At Grade School Tournament

Down The Mesh For Two Points

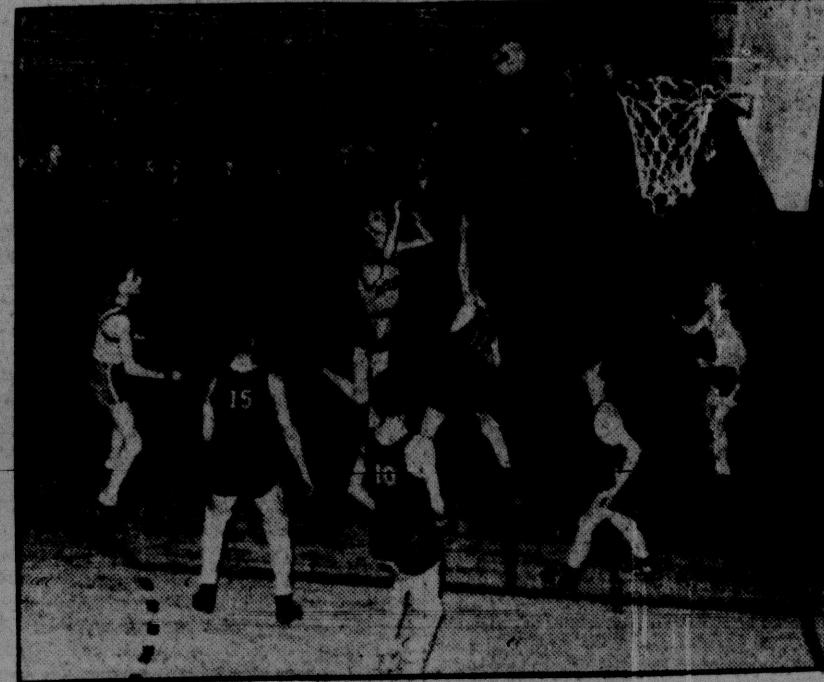

Maynard Johnson sinks one as the South Jacksonville lads take Murrayville in the opening game of the tournament. No. 3, Joe Million, was already to block a pass to Reeve, 88, while Wayne and Ted Coumbe race in from the side to get the rebound for Murrayville. Darrell and Richard Fry were ready to lend a hand, and Clarkson, just behind the shooter, was ready for a fast break down the floor. McGrath, in the foreground, was ready to cover the rebound if it came to his side—but the ball went through and South Jacksonville won.

Rourke Hits For Waverly

Jimmy Rourke, a slender but accurate tosser from Waverly, is shown here as he connected with a shot against St. Patrick's in the opening round of the tournament. Out of bounds but waiting to come in is Melvin Deatherage, the high scorer of the tournament, while No. 8, G. Boyd, in the foreground, hurried up to help in taking the ball off the bankboard. Over in the other corner is Harris, Waverly guard. Devlin, St. Pat's forward, Scanlon, Smith and Gordon are waiting under the hoop.

Woodson Cager Cracks Nets

Here's Billy Fanning pecking the mesh for one of the two baskets he registered when Woodson won its opening game from Chapin. Peribis, No. 12, tried to stop the shot, but it was over his head. McNeil, No. 15, was ready to go in any direction, and Gimbel, No. 10, is studying the ball in its flight, trying to determine where it is coming down. Jimmy Hart, Woodson high scorer, is poised for a start in the direction of the rebound, if there is one. The coker youngster under the hoop is M. Nash, and over in the corner is Frank Leeper, one of the tournament favorites.

Franklin Gets Tip—D. P. Wins

Franklin controlled the tip-off, but David Prince won their opening game; and then last night eliminated Woodson to reach the finals where tonight the D. P. lads will play South Jacksonville for the title. Lovell, No. 6, sent the ball back to his team-mate, Dugger, as Smith kept Clinch from getting too close to the ball. Ingold is shown as he landed in the center circle after the jump, while in the rear of the play, Bob Day, No. 6, Neese, Franklin and Byron Doyle wait to see what is going to happen next.

Joe Louis Beats Natie Brown, Scoring Technical Knockout

Municipal Auditorium Kansas City, Feb. 17.—(P)—Joe Louis, the Detroit "Brown Bomber" scored a technical knockout over Natie Brown of Washington in the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round main event bout here tonight. Louis weighed 206 pounds, Brown 199.

HOPPER'S REMODELING SALE
Drastic Reductions

The first two rounds were tame, with Brown carrying the fight to Louis. In the third Louis began to connect with short, powerful blows to the face which drove Brown to cover. The end came after 42 seconds of fighting in the fourth round. Sharp rights and lefts sent Brown reeling to the ropes. Another flurry and he went down. Dazed, he tried to regain his feet, grasping referee Walter Bates' leg in an effort to pull himself up. Bates went down, then rushed over and held up Louis' arm in token of victory.

A crowd estimated by matchmaker Frank Gatto at 14,000 saw the "Brown Bomber" come back to redeem himself for his indifferent showing in his bout with Bob Pastor.

Braatz Breaks Bowling Record

BY RICHARD McCANN
NEA Service Sports Writer

Cleveland.—You might say that Harry Braatz, who bowled over the sports world and 864 pins the other night for a new world three-game record, is as busy as a bee.

His life, you see, is full of bills, bowling, and basketball. When he gets through with his daily work of handling freight rates and such for a railroad here, Harry hits himself to a bowling alley for two hours and then to a basketball court for two, or so, more.

Tall and slim, he jumps center for two basketball teams and bowls in three pin leagues. On nights when he doesn't have anything to do, Mr. Braatz, of course, bowls.

Comparatively unknown in ten-pin circles outside of Cleveland, young Mr. Braatz is by no means a lucky flash-in-the-pan.

He has been splattering around for seven years, getting better, as you can see, each year. This season his all-round average in all three leagues is a creditable 195, and only last week he banged out a game of 286 and a set of 714.

Record Should Stand

His record of 864 pins, bettering the old mark of 854 set by Otto Stein of St. Louis three years ago, is expected to stand a long, long time. After all, it is only 36 pins shy of a perfect 900.

Most of his fellow Cleveland bowlers don't see how he does it. Braatz hasn't got perfect form, they say. He lifts the ball too high on the backstroke. Lots of the boys have tried to correct this fault. It would seem that their well-meant efforts were not only wasted, but quite unnecessary.

Quiet, modest Braatz, six-feet-two and weighing 170 pounds, is a natural athlete, effortless in his movements. He has an easy delivery and throws a medium-speed ball. He imparts a sweeping natural curve to the ball.

"I don't know why, either," says he. "because I could never throw a curve in baseball to speak of."

"Baseball?" Does Mr. Braatz play that, too?

"Oh sure—both baseball and softball. I'm an outfielder."

Braatz finds his bowling curve rather embarrassing at times. He can't throw a straight ball and when the pin in the last row over on the right-hand side is left standing alone, Mr. Braatz has to move far over to his left and heave the ball from there to overcome the hook.

Sometimes it works and gets the wood. But sometimes it doesn't and it costs him numerous spares.

Scores 31 Strikes

Nothing like that happened the other night, however, when he was smashing the world's record. His fast-breaking hook was finding the head-pin all evening and he had more strikes than the auto industry, banging out 31 strikes of a possible 36.

Only one of these was what the bowling boys call a "Brooklyn" meaning on the wrong side. This occurred in the third box of his last game.

Twenty-two of his strikes came in a row as he bowled a perfect 300 in his second game and went on to score ten more consecutive strikes in the third and final game. He might have kept right on going with his next two heaves, but his friends, realizing he had smashed the record, leaped upon him and thumped his back and wrung his hand so vigorously that he could hardly hold the 16-pound ball. But he

Purdue's Forward Leads in Scoring

Has Chance to Turn in All-Time Conference Record

Chicago.—(P)—Jewell Young, Purdue's speedy southpaw forward, can set a new all-time western conference basketball scoring record for a single season by averaging 10 points in four games remaining on the Boilmakers' Big Ten schedule.

The Boilmakers ace scored 10 points Saturday night against Iowa, falling off the 15 point average he had been maintaining, and then came back Monday night to collect 20 points against Illinois, tying Rieff's single game record.

Young has scored 129 points in eight games, an average of better than 16 points per contest. The season record is 167 points set by Joe Rieff of Northwestern in the 1932-33 campaign.

The Boilmakers ace scored 10 points Saturday night against Iowa, falling off the 15 point average he had been maintaining, and then came back Monday night to collect 20 points against Illinois, tying Rieff's single game record.

Young already has scored as many field goals as did Rieff in setting the conference mark in 1933. He has bagged 53 baskets, but has scored but 23 free throws to the 61 which Rieff scored in 12 games. Young, however, has been extremely accurate from the foul line and has missed but six chart-ity attempts.

The four remaining games on Purdue's schedule are with Minnesota, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin, and it appears likely that Young will surpass Bob Kessler's 1935 total of 160 points.

In the second place among the individual scores is Harry Combes, Illinois' versatile forward and guard, who has collected 83 points, two more than Ken Gunning of Indiana. John Townsend of Michigan climbed from fifth place to fourth with a 73 point total.

McCabe Church Notes

Good results were had at the Ladies' Aid society, which met with Mrs. Arstella Moody last Thursday.

Mrs. J. Blaine Walker brought an interesting and helpful message to a good audience Sunday morning. The singing of the combined choirs, with Mary Blue at the piano, was of a worshipful nature.

Mrs. Walker also played a nurse, the Supt. of the Brewster Hospital, Jacksonville, Florida, in a play at Grace Methodist church, Sunday afternoon, and was guest soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Perry.

Pastor Walker, to the delight of the membership, is able to be up. He plans to attend the worship service Sunday morning. Mrs. Walker will deliver the sermon. It is less than sixty days to Annual Conference, and a full attendance is urged, since there will be no evening worship service until March 17. Ten ten-dollar Gleaners were appointed to report Easter.

A Lincoln day program, under the auspices of the young people of the church, will be held at 4 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 21, with Mrs. G. E. EDWARD McALLISTER

The years have been kind to Edward McAllister, pictured above, who on Lincoln's birthday anniversary turned his 97th milestone. Mr. McAllister, who lives in Griggsville, is the only surviving Civil War veteran of the township, and he is pictured here in the uniform he loves.

Mr. McAllister spends much of his time out of doors, doing chores around the farm operated by his son. Every day when the weather is fair, he drives to town in his horse and buggy.

Annually, the Griggsville schools pay tribute to Mr. McAllister during the Lincoln anniversary programs.

Lower Stock Trend

New York, Feb. 17.—(P)—Although rails pushed ahead in the stock market today, other groups suffered mild sinking spells after early firmness.

Other than the positive action of the carriers, brokers said, the market's prime characteristic was its inaction.

In early dealings motors and store issues were given a push forward. Before long steels and aircrafts jogged along. Around mid-day the carriers gathered momentum from buying said to have been prompted by a satisfactory freight carloadings outlook.

As the session drew to a close rails stood their ground, while the rest of the list sagged somewhat.

At the finish the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 73.1. Transactions increased to 2,578,000 shares from 2,218,610 Tuesday.

In the background of trading, financial circles said, were the conflicting influences of favorable industrial news and fears the market might be deprived of support of foreign buying.

Chart students of the market, eager for technical hints of trend, said the inability of steels to make a better showing with the help of favorable news was indicative of Wall street's cautious mood.

Utilities declined 0.3 of a point to 51.5 in terms of the Associated Press average of 15 shares, notwithstanding the report of the Edison Electric Institute showing power output holding well over last year.

Averages Higher

Chicago, Feb. 17.—(P)—In a succession of quick reversals of price trend, wheat in Chicago averaged higher today, especially as dealings drew to an end.

An outstanding feature was that offerings of new crop wheat futures here were relatively scarce most of the time, September in particular with numerous reports of severe soil-drifting despite light moisture at various points southwest. Another stimulus was that late estimates directed to 1,500,000 bushels total Canadian wheat export business today, although partly wheat astir disposed of at distress prices.

German purchases of wheat from Argentina, Australia and India did much to lift values at some stages and traders took notice, too, of assertions that the peak of the Argentine crop movement has about been reached or already passed.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were unchanged to 4 higher compared with yesterday's finish, May 1351-2, July 1184-8, Sept. 1142-115, corn 18 lower to 3 advance, May 1082-3, July 104-104, Sept. 971, oats unchanged to 4 up, May 501-2, and rice varying from 3 decline to 5 gain.

In provisions, the outcome was two cents off to five cents higher.

THE spreading buttresses of tropical trees still are somewhat of a mystery. Although they perform admirably in holding up the tree, it is not clear why tall temperate climate trees have not developed similar aids, since trees in the open have more need for support.

K. So you say you passed Jocelyn in the passage at 8:10?

R. I certainly did, so perhaps you'll exercise your talents in finding out what he was up to between 7:45 and 8:10. There was much more time for him to have done this job than me.

K. He hadn't got your motive.

R. He certainly had. He's always lived above his income. For the last five years he's been entirely dependent on Lady Welter. She's in a jam because of those fool papers she runs. She loses a packet on them every year, yet she won't give them up because she just lives for this Christian crusading business.

I I'd failed to do a deal with Blane she would have gone under with me and young Jocelyn would have found himself on his uppers. He stood to benefit just as much by Blane's death as I did. More, in fact, because even if Rockavage Consolidated had gone down the drain I have other resources.

K. I get your point, Mr. Rockavage.

R. How about the Jap, too?

K. How about him?

R. Well, he stood in to lose a million dollars if Blane had lived long enough to come to an arrangement with me.

K. I'd certainly like to hear some more about that, Mr. Rockavage.

R. It's this way. Officially he's acting for the Shikoku people and he's been trying to sell me the Japanese soap monopoly on their behalf for months past, but he's playing ball with another crowd.

K. You're wrong there. Rockavage has other assets outside his soap companies, whereas you haven't, so motive is stronger in your case.

Again Submits Plan For Recodification Of Insurance Laws

Object Is Complete Protection of Policyholders; Details of Measure

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—Insurance Director Ernest Palmer for the third time submitted to the legislature today his recodification of state insurance laws.

Another bitter fight was expected over Palmer's bulky bill, which revises and modernizes the present laws governing the insurance business. In the 1935 regular session, the insurance code passed the house but was killed in the senate. It was defeated a second time in the special sessions that followed.

The legislative sponsors are the insurance chairmen Senator Thomas E. Keane and Representative George A. Fitzgerald, both of Chicago.

"The bill was introduced," Palmer said, "has one primary object, and that is the complete protection of the policyholders and their trust funds, while at the same time imposing no arbitrary or unreasonable restrictions upon the operations of legitimate companies under competent and honest management."

Among the new provisions in the proposed code are:

The minimum capital and surplus requirements of practically all classes of companies would be increased and a definition of "admitted assets" to be used in determining the solvency of an insurance company added.

A provision ultimately limiting life insurance companies to the life insurance and health and accident business.

Requiring the filing and approval of all policy forms used in Illinois and will enable the department of insurance to eliminate deceptive clauses and limitations contained in some insurance contracts now being issued.

Empowering the court or jury to impose a penalty on a company which refuses to pay a claim and forces the policyholder to bring suit.

The code includes a fire insurance rate regulation law providing for the licensing, examination and supervision of rate making bureaus.

Palmer said the present laws are a "hodge-podge" of piece-meal legislation enacted during the past century. Many sections are obsolete, ambiguous and unworkable, he declared.

Palmer said the bill imposes upon London Lloyds regulations and financial requirements similar to those required of companies doing the same kind of business.

The committee has been studying a proposal by Jones and Senator bank-head (D.Ia.) to set aside $500,000,000 for loans to tenants, sharecroppers and farm laborers desiring to buy farms.

This probably will be the basis of the final bill, the Texan said.

The Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Pope (D.Idaho) will begin hearings within ten days on the commission's seven-point program to help 2,665,000 tenants become independent.

These recommendations, submitted to congress yesterday by Mr. Roosevelt, call for a confiscatory tax on quick profits from land speculation, a forty-year payment plan for tenants buying land with title withheld for twenty years, and retirement of between two and five million acres of poor crop land each year.

A farm security administration would be set up in the agriculture department to direct the projects.

Jones said the president's message was a good one, but suggested broadening the recommendations.

"I believe the tenant should be given as much as he can pay for a farm," Jones said. "We could use the money to help other tenants become landowners."

Jones expressed the belief the tenant should be consulted in purchase of land and that local committees should help administer the program. Under the Bankhead-Jones bill, no tenant could receive assistance unless approved by such a committee.

DAUGHTER MISSING

BENTON, Ill.—(AP)—W. G. Thomas, Benton business man today requested the aid of authorities in locating his daughter, Eva, 16, missing since Monday.

They requested that the Hawaiian delegate, Samuel King, be supplied both Mrs. Bennett S. Copping's account and the official findings.

Reluctant comment marked investigation of the woman's story that a white man dragged her 75 feet from a hotel corridor to a garage early Monday and attacked her. That was only a few hours after a party at the Copping apartment in which she, another woman and two naval men participated while her husband, a submarine commander, was asleep. Chief Gabrielson said the husband had "passed out."

"I have my orders" was all that Lieutenant Bennett S. Copping would say when questioned through the nearly closed door of his hotel room.

Psychiatrists examined Mrs. Copping but declined to disclose their findings.

Dr. Henry A. Akina, city-county physician, reiterated examinations showed the woman had not been attacked. He said he would not testify against anyone arrested for the asserted crime.

Jury Deliberates Verdict in Corn Theft Case Here

Jurors Fail to Reach Decision in Phillips Trial Last Night

After deliberating for more than 12 hours the jury which heard evidence in the case of the People of Illinois against Clarence Phillips of Bluffs had not reached a decision late last night. Phillips is accused of burglary and larceny, the charge involving the theft of a quantity of corn from the Charles Drury farm near Orleans. Methodists Join In Celebration of Fellowship Move

Jacksonville Churches Take Part in Event With Millions of Members

Congregations of Methodist churches in this community joined in a nation wide service last night to celebrate the successful launching of the million unit fellowship movement of the church, an organization enrolling 1,000,000 members pledged to support the world-wide evangelistic drive of the church.

A plea for a united Christian front against communism and fascism was heard by the Methodists. According to the Associated Press members of the Methodist Episcopal churches gathered in 20,000 American communities.

At Jacksonville churches and Methodist churches in nearby communities the members attended dinners celebrating the fellowship movement. It was estimated that 3,000,000 persons of the denomination attended the dinner.

Christianity, courageous and aggressive, an economic and social order that will defeat Communism and Fascism, is the weapon E. Stanley Jones offered America last night as he said farewell in a nationwide radio broadcast that also celebrated the successful launching of the Million Unit Fellowship Movement.

Speaking under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches, Dr. Jones, Methodist missionary who is returning to India after a six months visit in the United States, outlined a plan of attack beginning with industry and labor continuing with student groups, governmental bodies and race relations.

Rejuvenated Christianity is necessary, however, to wage a successful battle Dr. Jones said. He declared Christianity must assume a new aggressiveness, must cease its pink-tear party attitudes and with moral boldness undertake to show the way out.

That America is trying to answer what need at home and aboard Dr. Jones found evidence in the National Preaching mission recently completed, and in the Million Unit Fellowship movement.

The movement is endeavoring to enroll a million people who will pledge themselves to God in more systematic financial support, more prayer, and increased knowledge of the world mission of Jesus Christ. Its successful beginning was celebrated last night.

At the first step in a defensive campaign against Fascism and Communism, Dr. Jones would make a plea to the leaders of industry and labor for cooperation instead of competition, the Christianizing of the foundations upon which their relationships exist. There is no need for industry to go Communist or Fascist, Dr. Jones declared, it can go Christian.

The present dilemma of America's students which makes them open and responsive to a sincere, real and adequate message puts them second in Dr. Jones' plan.

The response of mayors, judges and police superintendents to the work of the preaching mission, in which Dr. Jones participated, has made him believe in the possibility of the Christian movement launching an endeavor to make the local, state and national governments really Christian. Not however, he explained, that the government would be dominated by priesthood or sectarianism, but that the principles of Christ should be come operative in public life.

The Christianizing of race relations was another move Dr. Jones urged. An interchange of members was one suggestion he offered to help accomplish it.

He concluded with the challenge that the Christian way is the only workable way and a call to the Christians of this generation to make it work in political life and make a Christian nation, to work it in economic life and produce a new and juster order, and to work it to make individual lives adequate and victorious.

Joseph Baptist 101 Years Old Saturday; Served in Civil War

Resided in This City for Many Years; Family to Hold Reception

Joseph Baptist, the last survivor of hundreds of Civil war veterans who enlisted in Jacksonville, will celebrate his 101st birthday anniversary Saturday at the home of his son, Fred Baptist, 1104 South Twelfth street, Springfield, with whom he resides.

Mr. Baptist was a resident of Jacksonville until eight years ago. A number of his relatives reside in this city.

In observance of the anniversary, visitors will be received at the home between 2 and 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Frank Baptist, proprietor of the A. & B. Bakery on East State street, and J. W. Baptist of Beesley avenue are nephews of the centenarian. Mrs. C. C. Oliver, residing north of the city, is a niece.

The aged man was born near Funchal, Madeira, and at the age of 10 years was forced to flee the island with his family because of religious persecution.

After spending two years and three months on the island of Trinidad, he came to New York in 1849, remaining there until fall, when he came to Jacksonville. He went to Springfield eight years ago, following the death of his wife.

On returning to Morgan county from service in the Civil war, Mr. Baptist followed the occupation of carpenter. He retired from active work when 70 years old.

Mr. Baptist always has prided himself that he did not apply for a soldier's pension as long as he could work at his trade. When he quit active work as a carpenter he applied for his pension.

"Uncle Sam owes me nothing, and I will not apply for a pension as long as I can earn a living," Mr. Baptist has been heard to say a number of times.

Although almost totally blind, Mr. Baptist's health is good, considering his advanced age. While he doesn't go out, he goes up and down the stairs of his son's home unassisted.
